These can either be retail locations that offer in-person bet placement or online and mobile platforms, depending on state laws.

Spread bets are wagers that a team will either win by or (should they lose) cover a specific number of points.

Of these four, prop betting is unique, in that there are five states where this is the only permitted bet type. If a sportbook offers betting on races but is located outside a racetrack, this is known as off-track betting (OTB).

-game sports betting is legally available to consumers through retail and/or online sportsbooks within these states.

As such, even though sports betting is considered legal and there is an operational market, no online sportsbooks are currently available within these states.
