Toney, 25 from Philadelphia, was a seventh round pick in 2021 by Washington out of Penn State.

He will also have his remaining salary guarantees voided, meaning he essentially will be playing year-to-year, as the Lions could cut him anytime entering the upcoming seasons with no cap ramifications.

Williams "could be subject to bonus forfeiture of $862,179 if the Lions have the ability to recover any bonus money due to the suspension," according to Overthecap.

Amazon's Prime subscription service has seen a few price hikes over the years, from $79 to $99 per year in 2014, again to $119 in 2018, and most recently to $139.

Prime is free to join for 30 days(Opens in a new window) for first-time subscribers, so you can try it without making a year-long commitment. Sign up ahead of Prime Day or at the holidays to get free shipping on gift purchases and then cancel, for example. There's also a monthly Prime subscription at $14.99, though if you plan to use it for any length of time, an annual fee is a better deal.
