As the new football season begins, the NFL broadcasts have hit a revolutionary t wist. The league set foot in the streaming sector with Jeff Bezos's Amazon Pr ime. In the deal's aftermath, the numbers surely did not disappoint. The str eamng platform's first-ever football game stream has set a new benchmark an d established a big rival for traditional TV broadcasts.
Thursday Night Football on Amazon Prime had a sleek graphical entrance and a daz zling production. It also had a spanking new opening theme and two stunning team s that put up a great play. Additionally, in terms of the viewership metrics, Be zos hit the jackpot.

Additionally, as per Bloomberg, Amazon Sports Chief Jay Marine stated that the g ame was the stream service's most-watched event at Primetime in the country.
The firm also garnered a record number of fresh Prime members during game hours
. The change was bound to happen with the evolution from traditional TV to onlin e streaming.

The streaming platform has had immense success with the transition from traditio nal telecast to online services. It would take time for the football fans to get accustomed to the process. However, the online revolution in recent times can b e a valuable advantage for almost every NFL fan.
