“We have shown the evidence that if there are more Airbnb listings available around high-end hotels, those hotels tend to self-promote more by posting fake positive ratings. Consumers need to be careful because the reviews, especially on Tripadvisor, may be inflated and not be truly representative of the quality,” said Nie.

Digging into data

“We were trying to get the most accurate picture of who was competing with who,” said Nie.

Customer reviews increasingly influence people’s purchasing decisions online. Along with helping people narrow their options, previous research has shown reviews are considered more credible than promotional campaigns. But as Nie and his colleagues show, they need to be viewed with some skepticism.

Nie plans to continue studying how Airbnb affects hotel strategies to compete for customers and which are most effective.

Mobile Betting The Kentucky sports betting law permits all nine of the state’s horse racing tracks and satellite facilities to launch retail sportsbooks, along with Kentucky Speedway.

Some states, including Illinois, have previously used an in-person registration system, but it makes signing up with online sportsbooks difficult.

They will compete for new customers, so you will typically be offered generous promos and attractive odds as an incentive to sign up.
